MOLECULAR HYDROGEN BOOSTER

LONGEVITY

PERFORMANCE

WELLNESS

Molecular hydrogen is the lightest element in the universe, and is formed by two atoms of hydrogen combined. Thanks to its reduced dimensions, it can reach the tissues and cells in the body quickly, and works as a selective collector for free radicals, acting on the ones that are the most harmful to the cellular system.

The Molecular Hydrogen Booster is a practical nasal inhalation system that can be used in any context of daily life.

It is an innovative technique – accessible to all, easy to use, and with a broad variety of psycho-physical benefits.

Everyone can benefit from the Molecular Hydrogen Booster, a cutting-edge technique that can be used at any moment, with ease and even in small spaces.

THE MANY USES OF MOLECULAR HYDROGEN

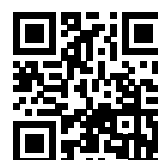

Molecular hydrogen is a powerful antioxidant with beneficial effects on both body and mind: it prevents cellular ageing, favours cognitive enhancement and, for this reason, it is the ideal solution for companies that are in search of effective and versatile solutions for their employees' well-being. It is especially indicated for muscle recovery after physical activity and is an extraordinary tool for those who practice sport, even at a competitive level: it reduces the sense of fatigue, prevents the accumulation of lactic acid in the muscles, favouring, in this way, top athletic performance.

MOLECULAR HYDROGEN AND MENTAL WELLNESS

Thanks to its antioxidant and anti-inflammatory power, molecular hydrogen may act on neural function too, and in particular on memory and focus. It reduces anxiety, promotes good mood, increases the ability to fight stress and favours focus and attention. All of these are fundamental elements to reach a deep psycho-physical well-being that can last over time. The Molecular Hydrogen Booster also offers new opportunities to spas and, if combined with traditional treatments, it enhances their effects. By promoting the natural functioning of biochemical products and reducing oxidation, it favours deep well-being, which reflects on the tissues like an anti-ageing effect.

PHOTOBIO-MODULATION

LONGEVITY*PERFORMANCE*WELLNESS

Photobiomodulation, also known as PBM or PBMT, is an innovative therapeutic technique working with the emission of light energy at low frequency that causes no discomfort and impacts positively on people's health. The specific wavelengths of this light penetrate the cells through the skin, like the sun rays, giving them new energy which will make them function more effectively.

Photobiomodulation is as simple a treatment as effective, based on modern scientific research. It impacts the mechanisms of cellular energy production, and increases localised blood flow. This allows a reduction in inflammation and in post-traumatic edema, reducing pain and increasing the capacity of tissues to repair themselves.

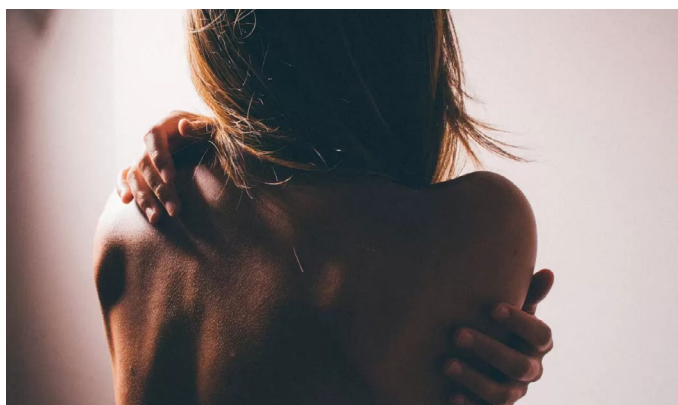

ONE TREATMENT, COUNTLESS BENEFITS

Light that gives balance to the whole body, improving cellular function, reducing inflammation and oxidative stress. It also increases blood flow and favours the elimination of toxins, bringing oxygen and nutrients to the tissues. For this reason, this technique is also useful in case of lesions, as it accelerates the healing process. It plays therefore a fundamental role for athletes who want to enhance their sports performance or recover fast after an injury, or very intense training.

PHOTOBIMODULATION AND MENTAL WELLNESS

Photobiomodulation can have a beneficial effect on brain cells: it favours focus and mental sharpness. It is the ideal solution for companies that believe in a new wellness culture, and want to offer their employees places to regenerate and regain energy.

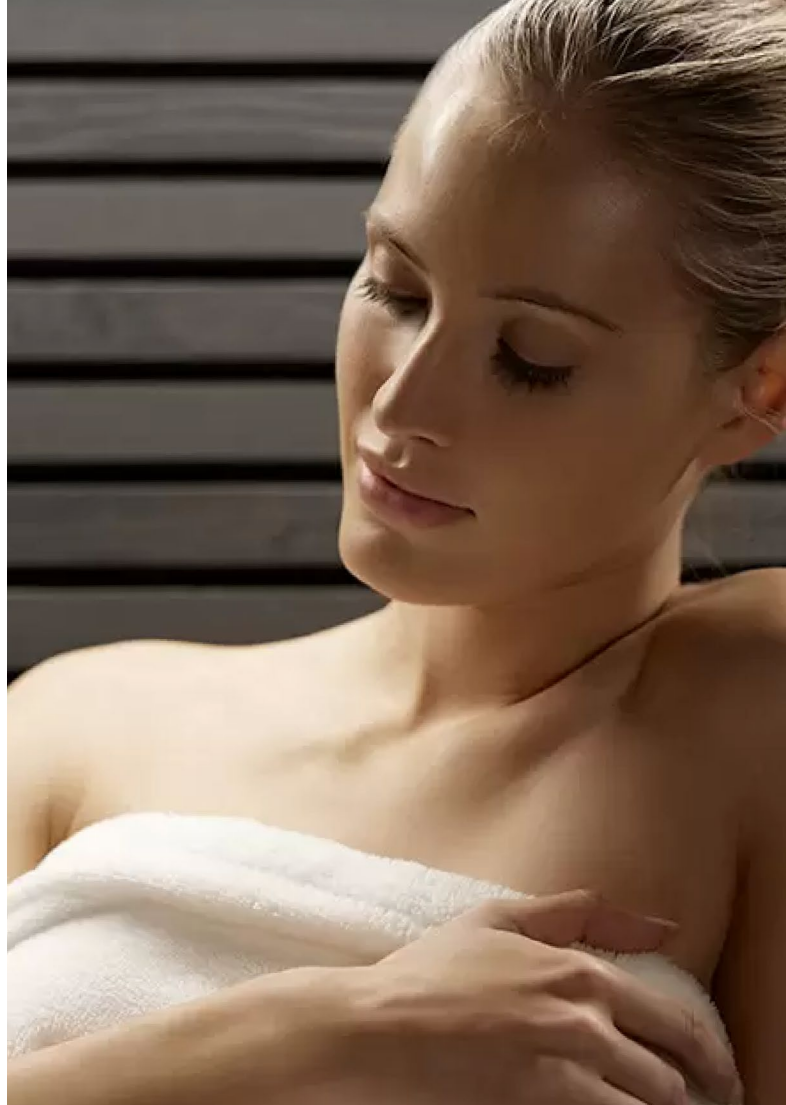

PHOTOBIMODULATION FOR HEALTHY SKIN

Photobiomodulation can be implemented also in spas and beauty centres that want to offer their guests cutting-edge treatments. In fact, it is useful for both the health and beauty of the skin: by providing the right amount of energy to the epithelial tissue and by stimulating collagen production, the skin will also benefit, looking softer and regenerated.
